

FINANCIAL FOUNDATIONS

A PERSONAL FINANCIAL LITERACY TRAINING FOR EDUCATORS

INVESTING, SAVING & PLANNING

Participate in a Personal Financial Literacy workshop on Wednesday, July 25, 2018, sponsored by Fidelity Investments, the National Council on Economic Education (CEE) and the Texas Council on Economic Education (TCEE). This workshop is provided at no financial cost to Texas teachers, schools or districts. Earning, spending, saving, investing, and planning concepts are essential components of any course that includes financial literacy topics. Learn the concepts to teach students and ways to incorporate the subject matter into math, science, social studies, language arts, business, economics, and life skills classes. This professional development program will deliver essential content and provide a variety of resources, strategies and tools to use in the classroom and prepare Texas teachers to meet the requirements of the TEKS in Economics, Personal Finance, Real World Financial Math and CTE courses. Teachers will leave the session confident that they can capture students' attention, and develop understanding, retention and application while addressing income, learning ability, and culture.
